Sponsors Picked For Dance; Shirelles Perform Saturday

Tonight will begin the first dance weekend of the 1962-63 year. "Rat Hop" will begin tonight with the first formal dance for freshmen, and the Jungaleers and Phi Kappas will provide the entertainment. The dance tonight will begin at 9:00 p.m. and will end at 1:00 a.m.

Tomorrow night's entertainment will be highlighted by the Shirelles and King Curtis and his band. The dance tomorrow night will begin at 8:00 p.m. and will end at 12:00. This should climax a big weekend after the game with Georgia Saturday afternoon. Saturday night's dance is informal.

"Rat Queen"

Tonight is also the night for the election of the "Rat Queen." All Rats are encouraged to enter their dates in the contest. The more girls that are entered a much better competition. The CDA would like every Rat to enter his date. Remember, there are numerous gifts awarded to the Queen and her sponsor by the merchants in and around Clemson.

The program calls for the judging of the "Rat Queen" to be held at the intermission. All freshmen should try to get their dates ready at the intermission so that no time will be wasted. Judging will be done by the members of the senior staff of the CDA.

Twenty-ninth Year

The "Rat Hop" marks the beginning of the twenty-ninth year of the Central Dance Association.

The CDA is an independent organization under the direct supervision of the office of the Student Affairs. It sponsors five dance weekends during the year totaling ten dances. These weekends include the "Rat Hop", Homecoming, Mid-Winters, Spring Hop, and the Junior-Senior.

For the Friday night dance, the Jungaleers will perform with the Phi Kappas, the popular group whose arrangements range in style from that of the Four Freshmen to the latest rock and roll, Rhythm and Blues, and swing.

The Jungaleers and Phi Kappas have received especially favorable and enthusiastic comments from such events as the Columbia College Christmas Dance and the Brenau College Cotillion. With the exception of Marilyn Cochran, the girl vocalist, all members of leader Ken Shepherd's band are chosen from Clemson students. The Phi Kappas include baritone Willie Stephenson, bass Denny Sloan, and tenors Jackie Wiechel and Emerson Byrd.

The nationally known singing group, the Shirelles, will be joined by the famous King Curtis for the dance tomorrow night. This teaming up of these two particular singing groups will provide harmonious singing since they have made many records together. The Shirelles have recorded in many clubs and theaters through the country, among them the Hialeah Club, Atlantic City and the Cow Palace, San Francisco. They were the recording artists who made the hit "Soldier Boy".

The Senior Staff of the CDA will have their sponsors at the dance. For Jimmy Hardwick, President, will be his wife, Mrs. Gary Sue Hardwick of Clemson. Miss Jessamine DuBose of Charleston is sponsor for Johnny Wrenn, Vice-President. Tim Hendricks, Sec. Treas., will have as his sponsor Mrs. Alice Hendricks of Clemson. Mrs. Brenda Kay Glaze of Clemson will be Coleman Glaze's sponsor. Coleman is in charge of Placing.

Miss Polly Richardson of the University of South Carolina will be the sponsor for Bow Shaw, Publicity. For Willie Stephenson, in charge of Floor, will be Mrs. Linda Jo Stephenson of Clemson. Miss Jane Cullum of Greenwood will be the sponsor for Joe Anderson, who is in charge of Decorations. And for Charles Jeter, A.T. termus, will be Miss Sally Wood of University of Georgia.

The CDA hopes that everyone will enjoy this first dance weekend of the year, and they also want every student to know that the CDA is trying to provide the best entertainment for all the students. The attendance at this dance and the rest of the fall dances will determine the caliber of the dances to be given this coming spring.

Open House

All dormitories will have Open House on Saturday, October 13 from 10 A.M. until 1 P.M.

Dansby Tops Officers At Fort Benning

Dansby, Jr., who graduated from Clemson in June 1962, stood first out of 194 students at the Infantry Officers Orientation Class, conducted at Fort Benning this summer. Lt. Dansby's reports from Fort Benning stated that he gave an outstanding performance as Patrol Leader on night patrol, as Mess Officer, and Platoon Leader.

While at Clemson, Lt. Dansby majored in Electrical Engineering. During his Senior year he held the rank of Cadet Colonel and was Brigade Commander of the Army ROTC Corps of Cadets. He had been a member of the Freshman Drill Platoon, Pershing Rifles, and was President of the Executive Sergeants, and President of Seaboard and Blade. He received the Third Army Commanders Certificate of Meritorious Leadership, and the Clemson Cadet Saber for being the outstanding ROTC cadet at Clemson College.

Lieutenant Dansby was commissioned as a 2nd Lieutenant, Infantry in the Regular Army on 2 June 1962.

While at Fort Benning the majority of Lieutenant Dansby's classmates were Regular Army ROTC graduates from other colleges throughout the United States.

Collegiate Press Will Hold Seminar

South Carolina Collegiate Press Association will hold its annual fall seminar program at Wofford College on October 19-20, 1962. The association will present Mr. William F. Buckley in a public lecture on "The Decline of the Intellectual" at 8:00 p. m., October 19, in the Wofford College chapel. This is the first of a proposed series of public information programs to be presented by the S. C. C. P. A. this year.

Mr. Buckley is the founder and editor of "The National Review," a conservative magazine. He is also the author of such notable political works as God and Man at Yale and Up From Liberalism. A graduate of Yale University, Mr. Buckley is in constant demand on college and university campuses all across the nation. His lectures have been described as "sharp," "devastating" and, (Continued on Page 5)

Tatum Introduces Cheerleaders For 1962; Praises Genuine Spirit Of Freshman Class

Our present Rat class has been proving to upperclassmen lately that they are becoming one of the most spirited frosh classes in recent years. This vitality is very commendable, and when this spirit is genuine it speaks highly of the new Country Gentlemen. By genuine, I mean keeping it within its proper bounds and not wasting time or breath moving cars, tearing up school property, etc. So far, I think our Rats have proven they have good common sense in this respect too.

At the game with Georgia Saturday I am looking forward to seeing just exactly how much spirit our whole student body has when they get together. We have a good team, or I should say teams, and if the student body helps a little I'm sure we can win the remainder of the games this season.

Our cheerleaders this year are as follows: Bruce Tyson, Chemistry major, from Poughkeepsie, New York; Jerry Burton, Industrial Management major from Calhoun Falls, Lloyd Kapp, Dairy Major from Columbia, Stephen Long, Industrial major from Gastonia, North Carolina, Annmie Owings from Clemson, Cynthia Byrd, math (applied) from Anderson, Linda LaGrone, math major from Clemson.

Doing a great job as Tiger and Country Gentlemen are Bobby Trojden, Arts and Science major from Spartanburg and Tommy Page, Industrial Management major from Sumter.

Our noisiest cheerleader this year is our cannoner, Steve Morrison, Civil Engineering maior from Hartsville. These are your cheerleaders, and closing with me, Tatum Gressette, Mechanical Engineering major from Columbia, we look forward to seeing you at the game Saturday. Beat Hell outa Georgia!

Paul Jenkins Sweeps Freshman Elections

By F. A. LAWTON
Ass. News Editor

Results of the Freshman elections were announced by John Lee, Chairman of the Elections board. The elections were held from 8:00 A.M. to 6:00 P.M. last Tuesday. The turnout was average as 44 per cent of the Freshman Class elected Paul Jenkins as their President over three other candidates.

Of the total of 1796 Freshmen on the college register, 785 qualified voters made their way to the poles. This rate is approximately the same percent turnout that has appeared in past years.

Students are expected to turn out in force to vote again Tuesday, October 16 for candidates in the runoff election. The offices of Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer were not filled in the first election. The rest of the posts are to be filled at this time.

Also on Tuesday all students will have the chance to vote on the changes in the Student Body Constitution. These amendments are being offered for approval or rejection by the student body. John Lee has posted these results in the campaign for President: Paul Jenkins, 456 votes; Ike McLeese, 168 votes; Butch Moss, 78 votes; and Bert Pearce, 83 votes. In the election a total of 392 votes were needed to be elected to any office.

The new Freshman President, Paul Jenkins, said, "I appreciate all the help that has been given to me during the campaign and all the participation in the elections by the students. I will serve the Freshman Class to the best of my ability and will honor the school at all times. I hope that every Freshman will return to the polls Tuesday to elect the rest of the student officers. In doing this, they can take their pep rally support and make their school spirit felt. Thanks again to the students, and I can assure you that the officers will work as a unit with the students at all times."

In the close Vice-President campaign the results show that Roy Fleming and Tommy Touchstone have been elected to participate in the runoff. The results for the Vice-President campaign showed Roy Fleming with 252 votes, Joe Robinson with 78, Tommy Touchstone with 284, and Ames Wiggin with 162.

The race for Secretary was led by Frank Purvis and Paul Quinn, who will face each other again in the Tuesday runoff. The tabulations showed these figures: Marshall Page, 75 votes; Frank Purvis, 332 votes; Paul Quinn, 293 votes; and Wilson Riggins, 99 votes.

In the Treasurer race George Fann and Al Roach will vie for the office next Tuesday. The total for the office were: Will Alvarez, 138 votes; George Fann, 141 votes; Al Roach, 355 votes; and Joe Vaughn, 136 votes. (Continued on Page 6)

Republican Chairman Will Speak To Y. R.

Bob Chapman, the G.O.P. State Chairman, will speak at the Chemistry Auditorium Tuesday, October 16 at 7:30 p.m. on Conservatism in the Republican Party. The Young Republicans extend a cordial invitation for all interested persons to come.

Born on April 24, 1926, at Inman, South Carolina, Robert Chapman is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chapman. They moved to Spartanburg in 1931 and have lived there ever since. His father was formerly president of the South Carolina Cotton Manufacturing Association, president of the American Cotton Manufacturing Institute, and presently president and treasurer of the Inman and Riverdale Mills.

Robert Chapman attended the public schools in Spartanburg until he graduated from Spartanburg High School. He attended Emory-Henry College in Virginia for two years under the Navy V-12 program until he transferred to the University of South Carolina in the Naval R.O.T.C. program.

In 1945 he graduated with a B.S. degree and an Ensign Commission. Upon returning from the Navy in the fall of 1946, he entered the law school at the University of South Carolina and graduated with a L.L.B. in January of 1949.

Chapman is now practicing law with Butler, Chapman, and Barnes law firm. He attends the First Presbyterian Church in Spartanburg and is the Chairman of the Board of Deacons. He is presently director of the Spartanburg Rotary Club and Spartanburg Music Foundation.

In February of 1960 he became active in the Republican Party and served as a member of the State Executive Committee and general counsel to the State Republican Party and was a delegate to the National Convention in Chicago in 1960. In 1961 he was a delegate to the Young Republican Convention in Minneapolis. He was a presidential elector during the National Presidential campaign in 1960.

January Candidates

January graduate candidates for graduation may pick up their rings class at Martin's Drug Store. Candidates must pay the amount due when they pick up their rings.

Angel Flight

University of Georgia's Angel Flight will make its first off campus appearance of the season at Saturday's game. The group, composed of 22 Juniors, will put on a six-minute pregame show. The Angel Flight has an excellent reputation: they won over Ga. Tech. and Emory at a drill competition last May.

The group is sponsored by the University of Georgia Arnold Air Society and appears here as guest of the Clemson A. A. S. The A. A. S. is the honorary professional organization of the AFROTC.

All students are urged to come in time for their performance, as it should provide a welcome change from the normal routine.

Miss Clemson '62 Will Be Elected

Hector McLean Jr. and Forrest Dixon Jr., co-directors of the Miss Clemson College Contest, have announced the date for the 1962-63 MISS CLEMSON COLLEGE CONTEST. The event is scheduled to be held Wednesday, October 31, in the College Chapel. Festivities will begin promptly at eight-thirty Wednesday evening.

Any organization currently recognized by the Office of Student Affairs may sponsor a candidate for the position of MISS CLEMSON COLLEGE. All organizations are urged to sponsor a candidate and take part in the first MISS CLEMSON COLLEGE CONTEST.

Organizations interested in the MISS CLEMSON COLLEGE CONTEST may obtain an application blank and a copy of the bill creating and outlining the Student Government position of MISS CLEMSON COLLEGE from the Office of Student Affairs. Listed below are the rules for application to the contest.

Whereas this institution has occasion to be represented in various areas of activities — national, state, and local — there exists a necessity for a Clemson College co-ed to represent this institution in appropriate situations as sanctioned by the Dean of Student Affairs.

Therefore:

1. The Student Body position of Miss Clemson College is hereby established.
2. Her term shall last until the election of her successor.
3. To be qualified to hold the position of Miss Clemson College one must:

- a. Be a registered, single female student of Clemson College with the G. P. R. required for her graduation; except in the case of a first semester freshman co-ed or a transfer student.
- b. Sign an affidavit which stip-

"Paid Communist Political Ads"

Here is a letter which THE TIGER recently received from an irate Clemson alumnus (not about athletics).

I would like to know if it is Tiger (sic) policy to continue to accept paid communist political ads such as published September 28th (Jacques F. Houis d'Ormont) "World Constitution."

To put the question straight to you, I wish to know if it is purely a need of money which has so drastically influenced the matter you publish or is there some measure of sympathy in your staff with such gibberish?

Or did you publish this as a joke? I could go along with you in that case, but please set me straight.

Yours very truly,
W. E. Brunson, Jr.
P. O. Box 308
Sumter, S. C.

P.S. As an old Clemson man, I request that you publish this letter.

The advertisement in question was one of a series of three that were published in THE TIGER for the weeks of Sept. 10 (Freshman Issue), Sept. 21, and Sept. 28. These ads pleaded for the establishment and ratification of a World Constitution. They wish to use the idea of a constitution as the means to establish a "sane world order for mutual survival." Perhaps this paraphrases their purpose in a wrong sense but the ads would have to be completely quoted to establish their true tone.

Mr. Brunson refers to these ads as "paid communist political ads." Exactly what his grounds for this accusation, one cannot venture to say as Mr. Brunson doesn't discuss his charge further. Perhaps the general tone of the ads, which sanction a pacifist idea, made Mr. Brunson feel as he does.

When does the idea of pacifism, or the peaceful settlement of differences, connote communist overtones? Are all pacifist organizations communist-oriented? Since when have the hopes for a peaceful settlement of international, or local, issues denoted communist influence?

Many people assume that such an organization as represented in these ads are communist influenced solely on the basis of their pacific ideas. Has the American ideal of democracy been one of violence and hatred and war in order to settle differences of opinion?

The word communist has, in this time of ad nauseum world crises, come to denote the person who will not accept the majority decision. Granted America was founded on the idea of the rule of the majority but the dissenter always played a big role in maintaining the sanity of the dynamic forces of democracy. Our concern with present day panics seems to forget the "right" of the dissenter to speak out.

Dissenters are never popular but they do make themselves heard. The Alien and Sedition Acts, 1798-99, were an attempt by the federal government to censor the comments of writers and speakers but the ensuing uproar demonstrated the feelings of the American public as being strongly against censure of any type. Is it then rational to label dissenters, whether their cause is logical, rational or just or not, as communist-influenced mouthpieces. Such sweeping banalities or blanket accusations show little but sweeping ignorance of the hopes and goals of the dissenters. (Jesus Christ, Martin Luther, Thomas Jefferson, etc. were all dissenters!)

* * *

Are college students mature enough to be exposed to the words and dialectics of communism and other -isms? Can there be any educational gain on the part of the student to be exposed to such ideas? Last year, a Rev. Mollegen was invited to Clemson to speak. The furor aroused in the lower part of the state resulted in Rev. Mollegen not coming to Clemson. People said he was "tainted" slightly red because of previous charges of being a communist.

Unfounded or not, these charges of communism certainly do not immediately disqualify a speaker from the college campus. Clemson is certainly not a liberal (perish the thought!) college but is steeped with conservatism.

What Clemson needs is a few speakers that would not mouth trite phrases of well-established, well-worn ideas but would cause the fire of controversy to rage within the minds and thoughts of the students.

Clemson needs -ism speakers that will challenge the nearly impregnable intellectual fortress of the majority of students; it would cause students to reconsider and re-evaluate their prejudices, ideals, and thoughts. What good is a college education if the entrenched philosophy of the students is never challenged?

In support of the idea of -ism speakers is this editorial from "The Washington Post," April 24, 1961:

SAFE FOR IDEAS

The president of the University of California and the Governor of the Golden State have given what seem to us model statements of the importance of exposing students to controversy. A furor had arisen because a man convicted of contempt of Congress for refusal to answer questions about communism was invited to speak on the campus at Berkeley.

Asked to intervene, Governor Pat Brown of California refused, commenting: "Let the people say anything they want to. If they do anything criminal while they're speaking or after they're speaking then they can be prosecuted."

To this the university president, Dr. Clark Kerr, added: "The university is not engaged in making ideas safe for students; it is engaged in making students safe for ideas." This is an attitude which ought to hearten more timorous administrators, for it goes to the heart of a main purpose of education. If university training can't teach a student to be discreet and discriminating in his selection of ideas, artificial shielding won't help him.

Point Of View

Pleading Leaders Point To A Divided Carolina

By ZALIN B. GRANT
Editorial Columnist

The integration issue has divided South Carolina into two camps. First, there is the majority who bitterly opposes integration but realizes that rebellion is futile. And second, there is a minority who—in likeness to the character of Katherine Porter's best-seller, "Ship of Fools," who hates haters—wishes to see integration become a reality for no other reason than simply because the majority opposes it. Also there is a slim number of moralists who support integration.

Extremists, who advocate physical resistance, never have been a power in South Carolina and the remnants of this faction are a disappearing specie, reminding us of their presence only by the demagogic brayings of certain obnoxious politicians. Understandably missing from the scene are those who believe that the laws of the federal government must be carried out and that in Constitutional matters, the federal courts are left with the final decisions. These South Carolinians, if there are any, remain in the shadows, refusing to venture forth their opinions in this state where hate runs strong.

Politicians, forced to take a stand on the Mississippi crisis because of the nearness of elections, have for the most part backed up that state's rebellious governor, Ross Barnett. Senator Johnston, as well as the GOP nominee Workman, have criticized the Kennedy administration for sending troops to enforce the decision of the federal court. Governor-elect Russell played it safe by supporting the actions of Barnett.

With all these facts in mind, it becomes hardly likely that any South Carolinian will speak up for the federal government knowing that he will be immediately stigmatized either as a "niggerlover" or as a socialist.

The desperate battle against the Negro is being waged by those shielded in the now flimsy armor of states rights. If this was the sole grounds on which integration was opposed by the South, then no scars would be left in the inevitable triumph of the government; but it goes much deeper than states rights. This is an emotional war.

Environmental propaganda churned out by racists have influenced many into forgetting that we are Americans first and southerners second. No one doubts the supremacy of the federal government, but to suggest that this state should obey the law, willfully, without court coercion, would be treasonable heresy to the South.

Here at Clemson I have heard many leaders speak on the burning issue facing us—at times students, professors, military officers and members of the administration. They have stated, some almost apologetically, that we must accept integration because it is futile to resist . . . and because we must not suffer the type of unbearable publicity that rained down upon Mississippi.

There must be more valid reasons for integration in this institution of higher learning futility and bad publicity. Perhaps Mr. Frank Graham was directing a reminder to such leaders when he wrote:

"It is timely to recall that George Washington, a southerner, stood for the universality of federal government; that Thomas Jefferson, a southerner, stood for the universality of human rights; that James Madison, the chief framer of the Constitution, used states rights as did Thomas Jefferson, both southerners, in defense of and not against basic human liberties; and that John Marshall, a southerner, established that the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States is the law of the land in all the states."

Talk Of The Town

Defiance Ridiculous-Acceptance Logical

By CECIL HUEY
Tiger Feature Editor

South Carolina is the only State remaining segregated. However, the end to this segregation is drawing near. It doesn't matter whether it comes first at Clemson, with Harvey Gantt, or at any other South Carolina school or college, it's coming just the same. Southerners are powerless.

The recent unpleasant incident at Mississippi was a loud declaration of the South's unwillingness to accept integration. It is hardly conceivable that anyone could have seriously thought that the violent resistance to James Meredith's entrance could have been successful, yet hundreds of people demonstrated violently in protest to the integration of Ole Miss. This was a cry in protest against an idea diametrically opposed to the society and way of life in the South. Much has been said condemning the actions of those who took part in these riots. It is an accepted fact that the rioting and fighting that took place was totally unnecessary, but is also completely unreasonable to assume that a factor in the Southern way of life can be completely buried without a cry of protest—no matter what this factor may be.

Those who protest must be aware that their protests will fall unheeded, yet they gamble their jobs, education, future, and even their lives in futile attempt at preventing the inevitable. It is ridiculous to make such a gamble when there is no chance to make the gamble pay off. When integration comes to South Carolina, we must keep our heads and refrain from rabble-rousing.

Laws have been passed enabling the NAACP to force integration on the South. What has been achieved by this? Nothing but forced integration. The NAACP says it is fighting for equal rights and acceptance for the Negro. Laws can force the extension of rights that were previously "white only" to the Negro, but no law or organization in the world can force this acceptance.

The laws of the United States have called an end to segregation. This is the law of the land; it can be trepealed only though the proper channels. If it were possible to reverse a Supreme Court or Congressional ruling by the use of violence, the United States would be plunged into a state of anarchy. Therefore violence can do no good. The people of South Carolina must realize this.

Had the citizens and students of Mississippi realized this, a great deal of suffering and anxiety would have been spared the family and friends of the Ole Miss students. As it was, much completely unnecessary trouble was caused because a few hard-headed Mississippians decided to take the law into their own hands. This can do no good. South Carolinians must accept this fact and show the country and the world that this state is wise enough to realize the odds against us. We can only hurt ourselves if we fail to do this.

Week's Peek

Cheer, Boys, Cheer --- This May Be Clemson's Year

By BOBBY DYE
Tiger Associate Editor

Tomorrow will be the first in a series of four big Saturdays at Clemson as the "home stand" begins for the Tiger football team. By the end of this series, it should be very apparent just what type season is in the making and will, therefore, be a very important four-game series. By the last game, Homecoming, the Fighting Tigers will have seven games behind them.

A previous article in the TIGER, kicking about "dollar day," brought in a letter in reply that, somewhere in the latter part of the context, pointed out that the Clemson students are given more priority in seating than the students at any other school. This may be pretty general, but the fact remains that we do get pretty good seats.

For this very reason, Clemson should have the best, or one of the best, cheering sections in anybody's league. In the past, although we've been known to have some enthusiastic supporters, the general kick has been made by upperclassmen that the rats weren't cheering enough. Last year and this year, though, it seems that the shoe is on the other foot.

Head cheerleader Tatum Wannamaker Gressette has introduced many new ideas in an effort to reach a new high in freshman cheering and has, for the most part, been successful. The rats this year seem to respond to the cheerleaders better than ever before. Now, if everyone else will join in with them at these home games, outsiders should be able to walk away satisfied that Clemson cheering is hard to beat.

Especially at the home games, upperclassmen have the tendency to sit back and leave the cheering to the freshmen, and this has consistently been pointed out by the cheerleaders at the game. Besides the fact that it doesn't sound good to have the head cheerleader reprimand the upperclassmen over the PA system, it looks bad to the alumnae who always sit beside the end of the upperclassman section. And remember, this college practically exists for the alumnae.

According to the sports section of one of the state's papers, there is the possibility that Clemson will be visited on Homecoming day against North Carolina by such people as Whitey Ford, Bobby Richardson, Mickey Mantle, and Yogi Berra. This just goes to show that you never can tell who'll pop up at the Clemson games and, if such people do, just what kind of impression they'll leave with.

For many of you, this will be the first time you've seen the Tigers in action this year, but they've been out there every week for three weeks just the same—and they have done a pretty good job so far. Supporting the team with some of the enthusiasm shown in "Death Valley" in the past should give them an even better reason to win.

Help them, through jam-up support, make THIS the year. It isn't unreasonable to assume that it could be the year, and it certainly isn't unreasonable to assume that the Clemson students are going to set a new high in support—even from the upperclassmen. Take advantage of these first-class free tickets and see all of the home games, else we lose THAT privilege, too.

In case you haven't seen the football field lately, it seems to be in great shape for the four-game stand. It's still one of the largest in the state and has plenty of room for all the routin', yelling students we can round up. Remember, though, that ORGANIZED yelling is by far the most effective. Watch the cheerleaders tomorrow, cooperate with them, and help BEAT GEORGIA.

From My Corner, It Looks Like . . .

An Integral Part, Si--"Guinea Pigs", No

By BILL SCHACHTE
Tiger Columnist

What are social fraternities at Clemson? Many feel our local fraternities are only a part of the "inevitable growing pains" that pursue the transition from a military to a coeducational college. Some have expounded that fraternities are nothing more than status symbols or implements for discrimination. Then again, others feel that fraternities are a necessary asset for a campus for this size.

The history of fraternities on this campus relates a series of advancements and progress unsurpassed by any organization ever to exist on this campus. In only three years, the seven local fraternities at Clemson have established a healthy program of inter-fraternity competition which encompasses just about everything from football to bridge. Within the last three years fraternities have staged clothes drives, paper drives, and the like, with all proceeds going to needy families or charitable organizations.

In addition to student regulations which pertain to all dormitory students, fraternities are also subject to regulations handed down by the Inter-Fraternity Council. These regulations range from "Rush" rules to academic requirements which each fraternity must maintain.

Fraternity men on this campus have proved themselves as individuals as well as a group. As individuals, they have received recognition for academic excellence, Student Government leadership, as well as varsity football, baseball, basketball, tennis, track, and swimming.

It has often been asked: "Should fraternities lead?" It is important to understand that fraternity life is not an end in itself, but, rather, it is a way of life. Fraternity life is a life of ritual, secrecy, tradition and newness. It is the object of the fraternity way of life to develop through its mysteriousness the riches that come with adulthood.

Fraternities need a yardstick to measure the moral, social, and academic success of their organizations. What better yardstick is to be found than the one of campus leadership?

Now, what this columnist wonders is the "whys" and "wherefores" for the HEAT which is being applied to fraternities by the administration in spasmodic doses.

There has been an attempt to organize "all" independent dormitory students into what amounts to a pseudo-fraternity. Our long line of Auburn "Independent" graduates is doing an excellent job to foster a solid program for independent dormitory students. Such a program should satisfy the die-hard traditionalists in the administration.

And it's these same persons who are not willing to accept the fact that fraternities are here and that they're here to stay. Maybe in the next ten or fifteen years fraternities will be allowed to progress from the "guinea pig" stage and be accepted by that few as an integral part of student life on campus.

Not to close on a sour note— as Lady Godiva remarked while getting off her horse, "I come to my clothes."

Nearly every afternoon here at Clemson, shortly after the hour of one, some unsuspecting and "thoroughly prepared" sophomore meanders into a physics lab. Of course he is late. No upstanding young sophomore would dare arrive on time for a class, much less for a disastrous three hour lab which ruins his sack time schedule. As soon as he arrives, he checks with the professor to make sure that he is not counted absent. That one cut must be saved until a later date when the poor sophomore has three quizzes the next day, and he just has to get in a little extra sleep. It is necessary that he be well rested for his quizzes you know. Study is unimportant, but plenty of rest is directly needed.

After he convinces the professor that he will be on time for the next period, the sophomore finds his desk and begins to leaf through his lab manual. Eventually, and unluckily, he uncovers the correct experiment. There is not much use in looking at the book, for all those crazy symbols look like Greek and there is no possible chance of understanding the theory anyway.

As usual, since he knows nothing, he turns to his lab partner to ascertain the fact that an old copy of the same experiment has been obtained from some upperclassman. When the instructor turns his back, the two conniving sophomores do the necessary thing and sneak a peek at the old report. After checking the "facts," an attempt is made to set up the apparatus for the experiment, but it is completely impossible. Then, the all-knowing graduate assistant is bribed and he finally gets the crazy thing put together.

The "students" play with this contraption for a couple of hours and then decide that it is time to make the final computations using the data which they have collected. Fifteen or twenty minutes later they grind out the final answer. It is really a "different" answer too. The force of gravity here at Clemson is found to be 74.91. The old report is checked to make sure that is a correct answer. How about that? — the old report states that the answer is 32.2.

Since their answer differs from that one on the old report, the two "Country Gentlemen" decide to do the only decent thing and copy the old report which has already been corrected and graded. Of course they will receive a lower grade, because their lab instructor is really tough when it comes to grading. The "transfer" (Continued on Page 4)

Sometime in the future the faculty hopes to set up an orientation program of one semester for high school students before they come up to Clemson, so that there should be no need for any students to change courses during his time here.

The aim of Dr. Hardy is to as-

We applaud the decision of the faculty to create this office and we welcome Dr. Hardy to our community here at Clemson.

The Price Of A Rat Hat

By EARLE SMITH
Tiger Feature Writer

This is somewhat a true story. The names of people and places used herein have been changed to protect the guilty.

It seems that a few weeks ago four Clemson rats went to a town approximately thirty miles from Clemson. It just happened there was a rival college located in this town. Nevertheless, these Clemson rats were not too worried by this fact. They were from Clemson, and rats from Clemson College are always highly respected wherever they may be as we all know.

The Clemson rats were browsing in a large dime store when they suddenly found themselves surrounded by about twenty rats from the rival college. We shall refer to these rival rats as mice, since any rat from another college is inferior to a Clemson rat. The rats, however, paid them no attention; nor did they attempt to start anything. They were only four while the mice outnumbered them five to one. Besides, they didn't want to dirty their hands.

Suddenly, a mouse snatched a rat's hat and ran from the store. As the rat started to pursue the mouse, two other mice stepped in the rat's way to block him. In a matter of seconds, a couple of elbows, and a knee one of the mice had a crushed nose, and the other mouse had two large gashes in his face—one from the corner of his mouth to his cheek, and the other two inches long over his eye. Immediately the other three rats began lashing out at the other mice.

Now there happened to be a tremendous display of unwrapped soap near-by. Whether he was pushed or, more likely, because of his clumsiness, a mouse fell into the display. Soap went everywhere! It was scattered over six aisles. It knocked down and buried the few mice that remained standing along with the others already on the floor. The rats left rather hurriedly, but left one of their hats behind.

In the meantime, the behatted rat chased the fleeing mouse into a shoe store. The manager of the store came up and asked if he could wait on the rat. The rat responded that he only had some private business to tend to and that he would be through in a few minutes. The manager began begging and pleading with the rat not to start a fight in his store. The rat walked over to the mouse, took his hat out of the mouse's hand, and took mouse's hat from his head. He then walked nonchalantly from the store with both hats on his head.

It seems that some unthinking Clemson upperclassmen have tried to snatch a few rat's hats and have met with relatively grave consequences. We suggest that these upperclassmen might find it cheaper to buy their own rat hats, although we realize that they want to be a respectable rat too. Rat hats are only a dollar; much less than a doctor's bill.

Tigers Tackle Bulldogs In '62 Home Opener

By FRED CRAFT

Frank Howard's Clemson Tigers take on a tough opponent tomorrow as the Georgia Bulldogs make a rare appearance in Death Valley. The Bulldogs are 1-1 for

Rifle Team Ready For Initial Match Against Bulldogs

The Clemson College Varsity Rifle Team will be host to the University of Georgia Rifle Team at the rifle range Saturday, 13 October, 1962. The match will start at 9:00 a.m. Spectators are welcome.

Each team will consist of 10 firers with the high 5 scores to count for a possible 1500 points.

With the new rifles and equipment, plus some new talent, the Tigers have high hopes for another championship year.

Team captain Ed Muckenfuss is back and in good shape after a recent marriage. Also returning this year are, Marshall Green, Bill Welch, George Peeler, Jack Belk, and Clyde Wehnt. Some of the promising freshmen are Kuykendal, Latham, and Pierson.

Let's beat Georgia two ways Saturday.

the season, having lost to Alabama, beat Vanderbilt, and tied South Carolina 7-7. The Tigers being owners of 2-1 record home, having lost only to a strong Georgia Tech team in the opening game.

When Coach Johnny Griffith took over the reins at Georgia two years ago from Wally Butts, he inherited a sophomore-studded lineup with great potential. However, with the tough schedule Griffith also inherited, the Bulldogs could manage only a 3-7

'Mural Football Begins With Rain

Intramural football got underway last week with nine games. A number of games were rained out, so this week will see a real full schedule. There will be some top notch games, and everyone who is on a team should make an effort to be at their teams games.

Some results of last week's games were as follows: SKI defeated 10-4, Abbeville County beat Section 18, Section 20 bested Dillon County, Section 10 beat DKA Devils, numeral Society defeated section 22, Delta Phi Kappa defeated E-4, SAZ topped 9th dorm, B SU beat Sect 7 and KDX beat Section 5.

record. Griffith is depending on Larry Rakestraw, a superior quarterback who throws quickly and accurately and can run well enough if the defense gets a little too eager. Rakestraw is potentially as good as any quarterback that Georgia has ever had.

Rakestraw Georgia Ace Georgia's attack is built around Rakestraw who many think can make the Georgia supporters forget such all-America quarterbacks as Zeke Bratkowski and Fran Tarkenton. Although Georgia's record is mediocre, Rakestraw has shown that he has shaken off any effects from a late-spring ankle fracture.

With only seven seniors available, Coach Griffith has had to go with the three unit system to compensate for lack of one real good team. Griffith plans to use several veterans on the Black team, the unit charged with the defensive assignments. The Red team, the first 11, plays both ways, and the Silver team plays on offense only.

Georgia is shy on strong runners, Carlton Guthrie, a 175 pounder at left half and Billy Knowler on the right half. The fullback position is filled by Fred Barber, a 196 pound sophomore, who has good potential to develop into a top rate ball player as the season progresses.

Georgia's finest in the line was Len Hauss, a brilliant center until a mid-season injury sidelined him for the remainder of the season. If his knee holds up, Len will be among the best in the Southeastern conference. Equally exciting is Mickey Babb, a 6-4, 227 pounder who combines all of the best talents of a great end.

60 Yard Pass Cooks Rooster Last week-end when Georgia tied the Gamecocks in Columbia, they did it by way of a "bomb"—a 60-yard toss from Rakestraw to Babb with less than a minute and a half to go. The Roosters thought they had the defense minded Bulldogs in the bag, only to see their supposed first victory of the season end in a 7-7 tie as Georgia elected to go for one instead of the tie-breaking two extra points.

The Tigers will start Joe Anderson at quarterback, and the halfback team of Hal Davis and Mac Matthews. Jimmy Howard will be the starting fullback.

Ted Buntun will start the center position, as well as ends Coleman, Glaze and Bob Poole. Don Chuy and Dave Hines will start on the tackle position, and guards Jack Aaron and Walter Cox will complete the line up.

Tigers Topple Deacons; Crain, Matthews Shine

By JIM GAUSS
Tiger Sports Writer

This past Saturday the Clemson Tigers thoroughly enjoyed a last period uprising to keep the Wake Forest Deacons out of the win column and keep the fighting Tigers undefeated in the Atlantic Coast Conference with its second consecutive win in (Mack) trucking over Wake Forest, 24-7.

Matthew's Run Sparks Tigers Mack Matthews helped to initiate the spark that exploded Clemson to a more commanding lead with a dazzling run that certainly must be said to have been the games best offensive play for both teams.

With only 2:30 of the fourth quarter ticked away, Matthews took a 48-yard Deacon punt to Steve Warren on the Clemson 12-yard line. As Mack picked up steam, he proceeded to elude a number of menacing Wake Forest would be tacklers.

When the dust had cleared and Deacon players picked themselves up off the turf after listening to the thunder of hoofs Indian-style; there stood undaunted No. 22 in the opponents end-zone, retreating an 88-yard play which just fell three yards short of a Clemson record punt return, Bobby Gage ('48), Shad Bryant ('38), and Henry Woodward ('32) being the only Clemson players to achieve longer punt returns during their college careers.

Though the final score depicted an easy victory for the Tigers, it was by no means an easy day for the orange chargers for the first three quarters.

Passing Attack Off The Tigers, failing to put to use their much publicized passing attack, kept the game at a tense balancing point; completing only three out of eight passes.

Early in the first quarter, Clemson's second offensive march was climaxed by a 22-yard field goal by toe specialist Rodney Rogers, for three of his game-total six points.

With 6:15 left of the second quarter it was Pat Crain plunging and bucking his way across the goal line from 3-yards out, and was Clemson 10, Wake 0.

But the Deacs were not ones for standing flat-footed for long. They quickly got a 70-yard drive underway, compiling 5 first downs of their game-total of 6 and their only score.

Rogers Sets Up Final TD

After Matthew's run in the last quarter which broke up a stagnant 10-7 score, it was Rogers who kept the Tigers rolling with a pass interception on the 39-yard line of Wake Forest.

Eleven plays later, sophomore fullback Pat Crain (who compiled more yards rushing than the entire Deacon backfield) again twisted and chugged his way to pay dirt from 12-yards out.

With the exception of Matthews 88-yard run the Deacs played a determined defense on their half of the field, stopping Clemson drives on the 28, 12, 32, and 28-yard lines; but the final score still held true, Clemson 24, Wake Forest 7.

Cubs Win Second Game; Ruffner Has TD Passes

By GARY BOLEY
Tiger Sports Writer

The Tiger Cubs took advantage of three good breaks, and put together an offense to defeat the Tar Babies of the University of North Carolina, 21-7.

The Cubs, although scoring twice in the first half, and holding their opponents scoreless, did not please Coach Convington McMillan. In the second half, the two teams scored twice, but looked better than in the first half.

Ruffner Throws For 2 TD's

In the first half, Henry Herlong took a pass from Jim Ruffner and sprinted 45-yards for the first tally. A short while later, Ruffner threw a pass to Clarence Duckett and the Cubs went for another score. This play went for 35-yards.

In the final period, Ellis Dantzler took the third pass from Ruffner and went half the length of the field for the third and final score. Bill (Tank) Stevens kicked all three extra points.

Three times during the game the Tar Babies threatened, but the Cubs took advantage of three breaks to stop them. Once on the three yard line, as Carolina prepared to score, the Cubs recovered a fumble.

A pass Carolina play that covered 55-yards and a would-be score was called back because of a holding penalty. Still later in the game, the freshmen of Carolina were on the 2-yard line and Jim Ruffner intercepted a pass to end the threat. Finally, in the fourth quarter, the Tar Babies scored.

Swift Runs Well

Bob Swift was the top ground gainer for the Baby Tigers. Swift did exceptional running in the second half. Jim Ruffner again sparked the Cubs to victory with his three touchdown passes as well as his defensive play. Joe Waldrop was pointed out as looking good on the defense.

The Cubs return home today to meet the Baby Imps of Duke. This game has always been a good game. Last year, the Imps came back in the second half to defeat the Cubs, and this year the Baby Tigers will be out to make a come back.

Thus far the Cubs are undefeated after taking victories over Wake Forest and the University of North Carolina. Following the Duke game, the Cubs will travel to Georgia Tech and the University of South Carolina. This will be the last home game.

All "Rats" are required to go out to Death Valley to see this last home game.

Frank Howard's Clemson Tigers turned in their first real fine game of the season last weekend as they topped Wake Forest by a 24-7 score. The Tigers played possession ball to the hilt as they thoroughly outclassed the Demon Deacons. However, at the start of the 4th period, Clemson was still hanging onto a 10-7 lead. This is where Mack Matthews took over, as he abandoned Clemson's punt return play, and streaked right up the middle on a Deacon punt and then raced 88 yards to paydirt. He slipped by several Deacons at the 15, got key blocks from Jim Howard, Jack Aaron, and Ted Bunton, eluded two tacklers at midfield, and had clear sailing to paydirt. Shortly afterward, Rodney Rodgers made a real fine interception on the Wake Forest 39 yard line, and the Tigers scored later on Pat Crain's bullish 15 yard run. However, it obviously was Matthews' punt return that broke the Deacons' back.

Clemson so dominated the second half that the only first down that the Deacons picked up after intermission was via a 15 yard penalty. The most improved part of the Clemson game was the fine pass defense that they displayed. Mack Matthews and Jim Bell looked especially good in the Tiger secondary. Rodgers, Matthews, and Jerry Taylor picked off a Deacon pass apiece, and the three interceptions in one game mark the most for the Tiger secondary in a good while. Hal Davis, starting his first game at halfback for the Tigers, came through like a veteran, with a fine performance. Ted Bunton, a sophomore center continued to play outstanding ball, and the entire Clemson line just mauled the Wake Forest linemen.

Many people couldn't understand why Clemson's fine passer Jim Parker did not throw the ball, even in 3rd and 8 situations. It did not come out until after the game that Parker had suffered a shoulder injury in practice last week, and was unable to pass effectively. This was a very well kept secret, because the Wake Forest defense was kept "honest" the whole afternoon and did not stack their line. Parker was playing with his arm shot full of novocaine, and the only pass that he attempted was a little short screen pass that was knocked down by a Deacon lineman. However, the Deacons never caught on, and the effectiveness of Parker's unit on offense was demonstrated by the fact that they did not have to punt. Anderson's unit moved the ball well also, and Anderson got off a fine 23 yard run that set up the first Clemson touchdown. Wernitz did not have to punt after midway in the second quarter, as the Tigers moved the ball consistently on the ground. Howard said after the game that he thought that the game would have been made a lot easier if Parker had been able to throw, but he was very pleased with the outcome.

Last week in the intramural action a boy had his leg broken as he was playing. The way that it happened was that as he was running down the field he ran into someone who was supposedly playing on the sidelines, but who was chasing the ball onto the field. The referees of the intramural games repeatedly warn people that are not involved in the games to please stay off of the playing field. It's just simply not worth the risk of hurting someone to be playing around while a game is going on. In the future, everyone should stay off of the field, except the players, and adhere to the referee's bidding.

One of our illustrious sportswriters, Fred Craft, was seen carrying a chicken to class with him last Tuesday. Seems Fred lost a duckwalk race that the Block "C" club was putting on, and that was his reward.

ACC Race Shaping Up As Three Way Battle

By BILL LINN
Tiger Sports Writer

Once again, outsiders have been playing havoc with ACC teams. From the very start of the season, the ACC has had no luck with "foreign" teams, and this week had only one exception.

Duke, a pre-season national power, edged out Florida 28-21, by scoring all their points in the final half. Behind 21-0 at half, Duke's lonesome end offense began to click and scored 21 points in the third period. Then in the fourth period, Duke marched 60 yards for the winning touchdown with fullback Mike Curtis bulging over for the score.

Georgia, USC Tie

South Carolina, a 7 point underdog against, led 7-0 for most of the game only to have Georgia's Larry Rakestraw fire a 68 yard touchdown pass in a last minute, desperation drive. Georgia elected to go for 1 point instead of 2 and settled for a tie.

North Carolina lost for the second straight week to a Big Ten power, falling to Mich. State 38-6. State ground the Tar Heels under with 524 yards total offense, although North Carolina had several nice drives.

Virginia, riding high after an opening game victory, fell off their horses last weekend as VPI's band of sophomores beat them, 20-15. The Cavaliers made two costly fumbles and both led directly to their defeat.

In other ACC action, Maryland, a pre-season favorite, won their third game in a row by defeating N. C. State 14-6. Halfback Ken Ambrusko's punt return of 78 yard for a TD started Maryland rolling, and they never ceased. State, losers of two straight, scored in the fourth period.

Clemson Tops Wake

Clemson's Tigers moved into a tie for first place in the ACE by downing Wake Forest 24-7. Clemson used a relentless ground game, paced by fullback Pat Crain who scored two touchdowns and gained 77 yards rushing to spark the Tiger offense. Mack Matthews busted the game wide open in the fourth quarter with an 88 yard punt return.

Action next week finds Clemson opening their home season against a tough Georgia Bulldog team. The day has been designated as Youth Day at Tigertown. In other ACC action, Maryland goes to Chapel Hill to play the battle-scarred Tar Heels while USC plays host to Wake Forest.

Games outside the conference finds Duke playing host to California, N. C. State traveling to Nebraska, and Virginia's Cavaliers playing host to VMI.

Our future is in the hands of men not yet hired

At Western Electric we play a vital role in helping meet the complex needs of America's vast communications networks. And a career at Western Electric, the manufacturing arm of the nation-wide Bell Telephone System, offers young men the exciting opportunity to help us meet these important needs.

Today, Western Electric equipment reduces thousands of miles to fractions of seconds. Even so, we know that our present communications systems will be inadequate tomorrow; and we are seeking ways to keep up with—and anticipate—the future. For instance, right now Western Electric engineers are working on various phases of solar cell manufacture, miniaturization, data transmission, futuristic telephones, electronic central offices, and computer-controlled production lines—to name just a few.

To perfect the work now in progress and launch many new communications products, projects, procedures, and processes not yet in the mind of man—we need quality-minded engineers. If you feel that you can meet our standards, consider the opportunities offered by working with our company. In a few short years, you will be Western Electric.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. For more information about Western Electric, write College Relations, Western Electric Company, Room 6206, 222 Broadway, New York 38, New York. And be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when our college representatives visit your campus.

Tom Advises Pen Pals On Letterwriting Art

This article "Effective Letter Writing" has been copied from "Human Events" October 13, 1962. It is being published because the Tiger has had little response to the "Letters to Tom." This article should help students in preparing "Letters to Tom", and should bring more response from the students. The Tiger wants every student to feel free to answer any gripe or offer any suggestion he may have.

When you are writing The Tiger, keep it:

Brief

"Most letters should be no more than 200 or 300 words, as space is limited. You will be sharing the "Letters to the Editor" column with other correspondents on a variety of subjects. Most likely, your letter will be triggered by a recent news story or editorial, and it is not necessary to relate the entire premise before launching your views. Of course, limit the subject of your letter to just one topic, news story or editorial; make your points quickly and cogently.

Pointed

"If you don't have well-developed, firm opinions on an issue, don't bother to write. Both editors

The following were elected to the office of Senator: Bill Boozer, 623 votes; Artie DeLoach, 453 votes; Woody Moore, 408 votes; and Jimmy Salter, 465 votes. Those freshmen selected for the runoff were Paul Burnette, 355 votes; Earl Burch, 309 votes; Bill Carnes, 336 votes; Billy Cate, 370 votes; Dan Davis, 379 votes; Don Ellis, 320 votes; G. C. Pundt, 327 votes; Fritz Sargent, 358 votes; Mike Stone, 370 votes; and Charles Wilson, 386 votes. Election Board Chairman, John Lee, said, "I am pleased with the turnout for the election and it shows that the Freshman Class participates in their government. I would like to see all the students turn out for the runoff election and for the three important amendments to the Constitution."

and their readers enjoy and react to a letter that has fact, feeling and direction. Unless you have something positive to suggest or correct, something informative and useful for the readers, your letter will accomplish little. Be direct, to the point and above all be sure of your facts.

Timely

"First impressions are the strongest, and so is the first impact of the news. Particularly, if the original news story is erroneous or misleading, corrections should be made immediately because readers are apt to 'digest' the fallacy if the facts come too late. How often have you heard 'Of course it's true, I read it in the paper just this morning?' Editors give priority to letters commenting on a story while it is still news; next week may be too late. Write your letter the same day you read or hear the editorial or news story.

Conciliatory

"Even though a news story or editorial may malign one of your pet programs or seem unduly opinionated, do not respond with a sarcastic, embative letter. Emotional charged letters get high readership but at the expense of the writer's embarrassment when he sees his hot temper in cold print. If the editorial writer or reporter has been unreasonably critical, point out his errors as factual and politely as possible, correct or amend them, and extend the offer of your services or more information if desired. Above all, you can't intimidate an editor by threatening to cancel your subscription; torrid letters only help increase his circulation. On the other hand, don't feel that an untruth is too gross to be dignified by an answer; silence is sometimes the severest indictment, and an unchallenged fallacy always carries more weight with those who wish to believe it.

Identified

"Always sign your letter with your full name address; also your professional title if it is pertinent to the subject. Anonymous letters lack courage and conviction, and editors seldom print them. Letters with pseudonyms are usually discarded because editors check on the authenticity of both content and correspondent; however, your name may be withheld upon request if circumstances warrant, but these occasions are rare. Do not ask the editor to reply to your letter or to return your manuscript."

Address your letters: "Letter to Tom" and either bring them to the Tiger office or leave them in the Dorm office box marked Tiger.

Senate Release

By TOMMY HAMM

In the October, 1962 meeting of the Student Senate, the main order of business was to pass a new set of "rat rules." These rules will be printed in their entirety in next week's senate release. The following is a condensation of these rules with only the main points mentioned.

A publication to be known as "the Rat Bible" will be made available to all students at the beginning of each school year through the matriculation process. This publication will contain such things as: the Clemson Alma Mater, Dixie school yell, and the rat regulations.

The Freshman Court is empowered to enforce the following: the traditional Freshman haircut, the learning of the Clemson Alma Mater and all football yells in the Rat Bible, the wearing of rat caps, the standing of

Speakers Bureau

Any student who is interested in being on this year's Speakers Bureau should contact either Robert Ellis in 4-209 or Bill Hendrix.

The purpose of the Speakers Bureau is to provide civic and service clubs and other organizations of the South Carolina area with students who can give an interesting and informative talk. Speakers will be given a general outline to use so that all important points will be covered, but they will not be limited to a word for word delivery.

This will enable them to get valuable experience and inject their own personality into the speech. It also is an excellent opportunity to make new contacts.
